

Current Guignol Production Opens Monday, November 27 With Beth Caddy In Lead

'Junior Miss' First Of Three Presentations

By Bill Wrench

Monday, November 27, will be opening night for the current Guignol production, "Junior Miss." Wally Briggs, Guignol director, has announced.

The play, first of three which will be produced this year by the Guignol staff, stars Beth Caddy, Arts and Sciences senior, in the leading role of Judy Graves.

Adolescent Daughter
Miss Caddy will play the part of the mischievous 14-year-old daughter of Harry and Grace Graves, and sister of Lois Graves. She gets mixed up in the usual adolescent scrapes, among other things, causes her father to lose his job and almost brings about a divorce between her mother and father. However, she finally squares herself with everyone and the play ends happily.

Produced On Broadway
"Junior Miss" is directed by Wallace Briggs and was written by Jerome Chodorov and Joseph Fields. It was first produced on Broadway.

The complete cast of the play includes: Eli Papa as Harry Graves; Sarah McLean Wilson as Grace Graves; Beth Caddy—Judy Graves; Joan Collier—Lois Graves; Edmund Mills—J. B. Curtis; Carolyn Schefler—Ellen Curtis; Opal Palmer—Hilda; Don Irvin—Willis Reynolds; Ivalou Ross—Puffy Adams; Jennings Kearby—Barlow Adams; Don Evans—Haskell Cummings; Hugh Collett—Western Union boy; Johnny Renfro—Morrill Ferback; Conrad Richardson—Albert Kennedy; Robert Ogden—Tommy Arbuckle; and W. B. Wrench—Sterling Brown.

The play will continue through a matinee on Saturday, December 2. Sale of tickets will begin when the box office opens November 20.

AST Men Receive Dinner Invitations

Each soldier on the campus has been invited, through the War Effort committee of the Student Union board, to have Thanksgiving dinner in some Lexington home.

Many of the soldiers who accept will be called for at the Union building by their hosts and others will go directly to the homes.

Martha Ringo is chairman of the War Effort committee and Betty Ann Brauer is in charge of arrangements for the Thanksgiving dinners.

Violinist Will Present Musicale November 26

Miss Mary Joseph Leeds, violinist, will present the third of the Sunday afternoon musicale series at 4 p.m. November 26 in Memorial hall. She will be assisted by Miss Laverne Gustafson, pianist.

Won National Honors

Miss Leeds received her B.A. degree from Eastern State Teachers college at Richmond. While attending Eastern she was a scholarship student of Thomas Stone, of the music faculty there. She received each year, while in high school, the highest rating in the state-wide music contest sponsored by the University. She received national honors in 1937 at the National Music contest.

Miss Leeds entered the College of Music of Cincinnati in 1943 as the pupil of Emil Heermann, concert master of the Cincinnati Symphony orchestra and a faculty member of the College. She is now concert master of the College of Music Symphony under the direction of Walter Heermann, first cellist of the Cincinnati Symphony.

From Musical Family

She has been presented frequently in recital and concert in various cities of Kentucky, Indiana, and in Cincinnati. She comes from a musical family and is the eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James H. Leeds of Richmond.

Miss Laverne Gustafson, who will assist Miss Leeds, has been studying piano with John Quincy Bass of the College of Music for several years. She will receive her B.M. degree in June. Miss Gustafson has appeared as soloist with the Cincinnati Symphony orchestra, in the Young People's Concerts under the direction of Eugene Goossens.

The program, La Folia, Corelli. The second group, Sonata in E minor, Allegro molto appassionato, Andante, Allegretto, ma non troppo, Allegro, molto vivace, by Mendelssohn, Miss Leeds.

Third Group

The third group: Sonata in E minor, allegro moderato, by Grieg; Prelude in B flat and Prelude in G minor, by Chopin. Miss Gustafson.

The last group: La Gitana, Kreisler; Habanera, Ravel; Dance from La Vierge Breve, by De Falla, Miss Leeds.

Kyian Queen Presentation Is Tomorrow

Formal Dance
Will Follow
Football Game

Maureen Rose, Alpha Xi Delta; Doris McCauley, Kappa Kappa Gamma; Doris Smith, Chi Omega; and Lucy Meyer, Delta Delta Delta, were the four final contestants chosen from the 47 entries in the Kentuckian Beauty queen contest in the preliminaries Tuesday night in Memorial hall.

Formal Presentation
From these four competitors the Beauty queen will be chosen. Her name will be announced and she will be presented at a formal dance following the Kentucky-West Virginia football game tomorrow night in the Bluegrass room of the Union building.

The Queen's three attendants, also selected Tuesday night, will be Betty Haynes, Alpha Gamma Delta; Bobby Jean Omer, Chi Omega; and Anne Ensminger, Kappa Kappa Gamma.

Chosen on a basis of general appearance, features, and figure, the contestants were dressed in formal gowns. Maureen Rose wore white satin with self-trimming; Doris McCauley was given in black chiffon velvet with a rhinestone clip at the low V-neckline; Doris Smith's gown was of shell-pink satin with self-trimming, and Lucy Meyer wore black net with a black satin bodice.

Presented To Judges
The entire group was first presented to the judges, after which they paraded across the stage separately. By the process of elimination the judges finally narrowed the number of prospective queens down to seven. Three of these were named as attendants and the Kentuckian queen will be chosen from the remaining four.

The contestants were entered by the sororities and other campus organizations, according to the number of yearbooks each organization had sold.

Entries were: Alpha Delta Pi—Ella Doggett, Maxine Rogers, Iris Shannon, Marion Slater, Mary Elizabeth Young.

Alpha Gamma Delta—Martha Jane Fitzpatrick, Annie Francis, Betty Haynes, Margaret Hollyfield, Frances Prichett, Carolyn Stevens, and Jean Wireman.

Alpha Xi Delta—Mable Carnes, Betty Jane Priestly, and Maureen Rose.

Chi Omega—Ellen Cook, Judy Johnson, Martha Jones, Bobby Jean Ohmer, Doris Smith, Elizabeth Allen Thomas, and Carolyn Walker.

Delta Delta Delta—Mary Fox Clark, Sue Flynn, Frances Draffen, Lucy Meyer, Jane Miller, and Ann Stevenson.

Kappa Delta—Nancy Glass, Dee Dee Melvin, Helen Milman, Helen Olmstead, and June Scott.

Kappa Kappa Gamma—Doris McCauley, Ruth Dilmock, Ann Ensminger, Frances Field, and Brownell Talbert.

Zeta Tau Alpha—Betty Ann Bond and Maureen Taylor.

Hamilton House—Virginia Bernard.

Shelby House—Doris Porter.

Independents—Juanita Hendry, Eva Singleton, Pat Gable, Ann Biggerslaft, and Georgia Portmann.

The judges were Misses Chloe Gifford and Mildred Lewis, Mr. Wallace Briggs, Mr. Ed Templin, and Col. G. W. Chipman.

Veterans To Meet

Veterans of World War II who are attending the University are asked to attend a meeting at 7:30 p.m., Friday, at the Man o' War post on Main street in Lexington.

Campus Drive Will Begin On Monday

SGA Sponsors
War Loan Drive
With $70,000 Goal

The sixth war loan drive, which will be sponsored by the Student Government Association on the campus, will begin Monday and last through the closing of the quarter on Dec. 14. Sara Dee Rainey, chairman of the victory committee, has announced.

Goal Set At $70,000
The campus goal is to buy two tanks, which are valued at approximately $70,000. Sales to reach the goal will include that of the faculty members.

A war loan drive booth will be set up in the Union building in the SGA room. In Great hall of the Union cardboard replicas of the two tanks will be placed. As the sales are totaled each day, portions of the tanks will be blocked off, indicating how many bonds have been sold, and how many must yet be sold to reach the goal.

Drive Competitive
Although there will be no prizes, the drive will be put on a competitive basis. Each week the Kernel will carry a list of the amount of bonds sold, tabulated according to sorority, fraternity, dormitory, or other campus organization.

Each student on the campus will be contacted personally. Miss Rainey said. All the members of the victory committee have not been appointed as yet, but they will be announced next week.

The fifth war loan drive on the campus exceeded its total, and netted more than $100,000. Miss Rainey said that she hopes the current drive will top previous ones.

S.G.A. Members To Be Elected

An election to fill nine vacancies in the Student Government Association will be held from 9 to 4 p.m. Wednesday, November 29, in the Union building.

Voters will elect legislators for the following positions: Arts and Sciences, one lowerclass man, one lowerclass woman, two upperclass women; Commerce, one man at large; Agriculture, one man at large; one upperclass woman; Education, one upperclass woman; Engineering, one upperclass man.

Candidates File
All candidates must file their intentions to run for office, indicating which office they wish to fill, by 4 p.m. Wednesday, November 22, at the registrar's office. Betty Ann Glinocchio has announced. Any application received after this time will not be accepted.

A candidate must have been in residence two quarters at the University excluding the present quarter, must have maintained a 1.3 standing, and must be a student in the college which he wishes to represent.

Retiring Legislators
Legislators whose terms expire at the end of this quarter are Marvin Churney, Norman Chrisman, Betty Fleishman, Wilma Jeanne Canada, Jeanne Bureau, Martha Gayle, Betty Ann Brauer, William R. Legrande, Doris Smith, and Bill Sturgill.

Although some of these representatives have just been elected by SGA to fill the terms of other assembly members who withdrew, according to the quarterly representative plan, their terms will expire in December.

Election Committee

The election committee of SGA, composed of Betty Ann Glinocchio, Georgia Warwick, and Jerry Napier, has completed plans for conducting the voting and a checking system.

Kyian Queen To Be Crowned Tomorrow Night

The crowning of the 1944 Kentuckian beauty queen will take place during the formal Beauty Queen dance which will be held from 9 to 12 Saturday in the Bluegrass room of the Union building. Col. Chipman will crown the queen.

Maureen Rose, Doris Smith, Doris McCauley, and Lucy Meyer, are the women who were selected in the Kentuckian contest Tuesday night at Memorial hall as the candidates for queen. From these, with the exception of Doris Smith, last year's queen who may not be queen again according to the Kentuckian tradition that no girl may be queen for more than one year, the final selection will be made.

The queen will be escorted to her throne opposite the orchestra by Bill Embry, president of the Student Government Association, and will be crowned with full ceremony. The three attendants will be escorted by three AST men.

A grand march, led by the queen and Bill Embry, will follow the crowning.

Doris Smith, chairman of the dance committee, announced that the Kentucky Knights will play for the dance and that admission will be 75 cents, girls to be admitted upon presenting their hostess cards. Jean Crabb and Eleanor Bach, business managers of the Kentuckian, are in charge of the crowning ceremony.

All housemothers will be among the chaperones.

Well...Doggone.....

By Jean Paxton

"And the little dog laughed to see such sport—"

Last Saturday night a lonely-looking little brown dog wandered into the Union building and, apparently attracted by the sounds of upstairs, he found his way to these upper regions. All the Daisy Maes were dancing with all the Lil' Abners, so no one had time for the little brown doggie.

The music stopped, and the chase was ready to begin again. All the available men huddled in one corner of the big room, and all the eager women fought for places in the first line. There was a moment of silence; then came the mad rush.

Suddenly, ringing out above the clamor, came the shrill, excited bark of the little dog. He sat with his head thrown back and his mouth wide open, howling at the top of his lungs.

Who knows but that the little dog was laughing? After all, in his world the women never chase the men!

Funkhouser Elected

Dr. W. D. Funkhouser, dean of the Graduate school, was elected president of the Conference of Deans of Southern Graduate Schools at the annual meeting of that organization held in New Orleans on November 11.

will be used to prevent fraud or errors in the election. The committee urges all civilian students to vote but each student may vote only for the representatives from his own college.

Thanksgiving Holiday

Thanksgiving day will be a holiday for University students. All classes will be dismissed on Thursday, November 23 only, and penalties will be imposed for cuts taken on Wednesday or Friday.

Cuts before or after a holiday add one quarter hour to the number of hours required for graduation, Dean Leo Chamberlain has stated.

There will be no issue of The Kernel next week because of the holiday.

Dr. Poling To Address Convocation Classes Dismissed Third Hour Wednesday

Dr. Daniel Poling, editor of The Christian Herald, will speak at the third convocation of the fall quarter at 10 a.m. Wednesday in Memorial hall.

His subject will be "The Spiritual Aspects of This War."

Minister of Religion

Dr. Poling is a minister of religion, leader in civic movements, counselor of philanthropists, novelist, and radio speaker, as well as editor-in-chief of the century-old Christian Herald. As president of the International Society of Christian Endeavor, he has been a leader of Christian youth around the world. He has traveled as a war correspondent with assignments from his paper, and also from Time, the Christian Science Monitor, and the Philadelphia Inquirer. Flying some 73,000 miles he has visited many of the battlefronts where American soldiers are in action—England, Africa, Burma, China, and the Near East.

Working For Peace

Dr. Poling is working for the future preservation of world peace, social and industrial justice, evangelism, medical aid for the poor, and a more courageous Christian church. Besides his sermons, he has published three novels: The Furnace, The Heretic, and John of Oregon. Classes regularly scheduled for this time, third hour, from 10 to 11:50, will be dismissed for convocation.

Dean Leo Chamberlain will preside, and Robert McNeil, assistant pastor of the Maxwell Street Presbyterian church, will give the invocation and benediction.

SUB Appoints Committee Chairmen

At a meeting of the Student Union board on Tuesday, Gwen Pace, president, appointed the newly elected members as chairmen or co-chairmen of the various committees. They are: Maurice Leach, co-chairman of the Dance committee, who will share the chairmanship with Doris Smith; Reginald Bowen, co-chairman of the Activities committee, with Marian Yates as the other chairman, and Nancy Ellen Taylor as chairman of the House committee.

Until the vacancies on the Board were filled, Gwen Pace had been the acting chairman of the House committee, but will now become an ex-officio member as she is chairman of all of the Student Union Service committees.

Installation Service For SGA Members Held Last Night

The first formal installation service for members of the Student Government Assembly was held at 8:15 p.m. Thursday in the Music room of the Union building.

Bill Embry, president of SGA, spoke on "Student Cooperation with SGA" and Mrs. Sarah B. Holmes, dean of women, spoke on "Faculty Cooperation With SGA."

All assembly members were formally sworn in by Kilmer Combs, chairman of the judiciary committee. A charge to the officers and members of SGA was given by President Herman L. Donovan.

Betty Harris Russell sang "The Lord's Prayer," and at the close of the program Rev. Robert McNeil pronounced the benediction.

Following the installation service, Dr. and Mrs. Donovan held a reception at Maxwell Place for members of the assembly.

'Cats Strongest Since Miss Opener; Howe Will Start

By Al Reynolds

For the first time since the Michigan game, Kentucky grid fans will see the T-formation in use when the Wildcats vie with the West Virginia Mountaineers at 2 p.m. tomorrow on Stoll field.

The single wingback formation was abandoned with the return of quarterback Bill Chambers who adroitly handles the intricate T. The boys looked a little rusty but Coach Kirwan believes they will be in tune for the contest with Coach Ira Rodgers' boys.

The Mountaineers who have won 5, lost 2, and tied 1, will employ a single wingback, unbalanced line formation with Jimmy Walhall in the key position. This boy is labeled one of the outstanding backs of the season, and if Kentucky is to win he will be the man to hold down. Other outstanding players for West Virginia will appear in the game tomorrow.

The return of Jimmy Howe, who was injured in the initial game, will mark the second appearance of the original starting backfield. Kentucky's two stalwart backs, Jim Parrott and Norm Klein, are certain starters and others who will probably see action are Dutch Campbell, Norm Weiner, Hobbs Thomas, and Roger Yost. However, the line is not in the same shape. Three key men have been lost within the past two weeks.

Doc Perrell became the most recent loss when he was called Thursday by the Navy. The 210-pound guard from Richmond was outstanding in early season games until a dislocated elbow forced him from action. The other permanent loss is Floyd Shorts who left school because of scholastic deficiencies. He had started almost every game at center. An injured ankle will keep Capt. Jim Little out of his first game but it is probable that he will be ready for the Tennessee game.

Jim McDonald will replace Shorts with Fred Ferris and Duke Saunders as reserves. Gene Haas will replace Perrell. This game will also mark the return of big Hugh Shannon whose knee has kept him off the gridiron lately. Henry Paul, Wash. Sentinel, Jesse McCune, and Tom Little are other regulars who are certain to see action.

At half time there will be a passing contest in which the best high school passing combination in the state will be selected. Each school can enter a passer and a receiver with the prize going to the duo which completes the longest pass. The prize is a pair of reserved seat tickets to the Tennessee game.

Question: What are your Thanksgiving Day plans?

Mary Louise Patton, A&S, junior: I'm going to work on a term paper.

Bill Batten, ASTP: I'm going home for a big turkey dinner.

Dora Lee Robertson, A&S, junior: To read an Eighteenth Century novel.

Frank Browning, Eng., sophomore: I'm going to Louisville to the Male-Manual football game.

Mary Crawford, A&S, senior: I'll probably have to read a book.

Pvt. Nick Housley, ASTP: I'll be resting after the Wednesday night dance.

Carolyn Schoeffler, Ed., senior: I'm going home for a little "preparatory" work.

Charles R. Craig, A&S, freshman: To go to the game and celebrate afterwards.

Eugenia Donahue, Ag., sophomore: Get off my diet.

Pvt. Dorsey Abshire, ASTP: I'll probably sleep all day.

Becky Grigsby, A&S, freshman: Eat turkey (if they have it) at the dorm.

Sue Ragland, A&S, freshman: My boy friend is getting a leave—need I say more?

George Hobbs, A&S, freshman: To dream of Thanksgiving day at home.

Winnie Roy Lewis, Ag., senior: A real sharp boy.

Johnny Smyth, A&S, freshman: To eat, drink and be merry.

Betty Haynes, A&S, sophomore: My boy friend will be here on furlough.

Corra Mae Strain, Ag., freshman: Eat and sleep and take it easy.

Students Discuss World Peace Plan

By Mary Louise Patton

Out of every war since the beginning of wars, plans for peace among men and countries have been conceived, but perhaps never before has there been a time when these plans have been discussed as widely and as intelligently as they are now.

World peace is a Utopian theory which many people believe may at last be reached after this war. However, it is a theory that must be developed carefully and with a great deal of concentration and discussion.

Since Mr. Culbertson delivered his convocation speech on that subject the students on the University campus seem to realize how very important it is to the welfare of the future, and wherever one goes—the grill, the book store, or in classes—world peace is being discussed with both intelligence and determination.

Perhaps if this would take place in every college campus in the United States and abroad, the ideal of lasting peace might be attained after this war.

A survey of different individual plans on the campus reveals that the most debated question is whether we should have a union of nations and whether all countries should be represented? Some of our youth here believe that such an organization would be a great help in preventing any sort of war again. However, it is generally agreed that this organization should be conducted differently from the way our league of nations of the last war was conducted.

One plan suggested by a coed, who went into deep thought over a coke in the book store, is to have a league which would limit productions for each country, including America. According to this plan Germany and Japan would not be completely disarmed but would be most rigidly limited in all military production, and Russia would be limited to some extent. As for

Italy, she would be limited somewhat

NOVEMBER 17, 1944

You Weren't One Of Them

Five years ago today, on November 17, 1939, in Prague, one hundred and fifty-six Czechoslovak students were massacred by the Nazis, and one thousand two hundred taken to concentration camps in Germany, because they refused against German invasion.

Since that day valiant youths from all of those countries which have been occupied by the Germans and all students from the other United Nations have fought and bled and died to build together a future world where free men may be peacefully secure from such force.

To mark this blackest of events in the history of youth an anniversary known as International Students' Day has been observed for the past four years, and this year, with so much of Europe already liberated from Nazi rule, November 17 will be especially significant.

So there is an appeal to the youth of America—an appeal which means just a little bit more than respecting those young people who have had to sacrifice their dreams of walking unmolested through a University campus, for starvation, for loss of entire families, for mass murder, and for mere existence in war-torn cities and villages. In tomorrow's world it will be French, Yugoslavian, Norwegian, Polish, Chinese, and American youth who will be fighting, through courageous effort, by friendship, and common striving to replenish the intellectual loss.

A pledge must be made to strive toward these principles of democracy even though the tasks that are before us will not be easily accomplished in a short time. The idea could be strengthened by helping to work out an International Youth Bill of Rights, to instigate an organizational aid of student groups in which the importance of working together would be stressed, or maybe the challenge lies in fulfilling first of all the appeal made at home.

The procurement of blood for the armed forces is one of the most important wartime activities. The fact that blood plasma saves 97 out of every 100 wounded men is a challenge in itself.

You, yourself, might have been one of the 156 Czechs.

University Commons Opened to Students

The University Cafeteria, "State Hall," was thrown open to the student body Monday afternoon with an informal reception, for the purpose of interesting the students in this enterprise. The opening marked the culmination of the scheme fostered by President Barker and Dean Anna Hamilton for the erection of a suitable building for a dining hall which would provide the student body with food at cost prices.

More than eight hundred students and faculty members were present. A program of music was rendered and refreshments were served.

The coaches and athletic committee have made arrangements with the management to set apart two training tables for both the varsity and the freshman teams.

Every member of either team should arrange to take his meals at the training table during the football season.

Military Science Forging to Front
The department of Military Sci-

All men who are physically able and who are not employed in some work outside the University are required to take this work.

It is every man's patriotic duty to take this work, in order to be better equipped to defend his country if need be.

The Prohibition League of the University will hold a meeting Friday evening. There are seven leagues in Kentucky at present: Georgetown College, Kentucky Wesleyan, Eastern State Normal, Transylvania, Berea College, Asbury College, and State University.

Lexington Horses Bought for Cavalry

A big shipment of several cars of horses for cavalry service in the French Army were due to leave Lexington Friday for Baltimore. Whether they really left at that time can not be certainly told, as every effort is being made by the French and English agents to keep such things secret to prevent any possibility of trouble from German ships after the horses leave the shores of the United States.

Horses, mules, and other stock are among the things that have been declared contraband by the belligerent nations, and these shipments of horses and mules from the United States will be conveyed by British or French cruisers or warships as soon as they leave the three-mile limit along the United States coast.

Dr. Tuthill's Class Visits State Hospital

The class in sociology of the University, instructed by Dr. James E. Tuthill, visited the Eastern Kentucky Hospital on Fourth street last Monday.

The visit was made to study the condition of the insane and the provisions made by the State for caring for these unfortunates.

The condition of the buildings was favorable; however, many wards were crowded on account of the influx of patients in the last three years.

REMEMBER

Ode to Mayhem

By Don Lall

The tragedy of adolescence is a nameless entity named Fischer. The group of the blood banks, vampire of the living, and a reasonable face-smile of "The Voice" gave a demonstration of her vocal achievement at a birthday dinner in October. It is claimed that she got on the tune once—however, it still sounded like the breaking of glass. The "cheap imitation," as she is now known as in these times, gave a rendition of a "wooden whistle." The "wooden whistle" is achieved by the remarkable resemblance to Charlie McCarthy—both are stooges. Fischer is a stooge of the learned; however, if one intelligent remark has ever been issued we have to hear it. She sang for her dinner as little Tommy Tucker of the age of Mother Goose, which is synonymous with the intellectual level of our own Fischer. Having completed the first grade they burned down the school to get her into UK. The "bronx" is the only cheer she ever got in her long, long life of twelve years.

As did "Dear Claire" and "Dear Alben" we must end our tete-a-tete. Farewell to the mud-slinging by which we had hoped to keep you "samsant" and feed blood into a dying world, so by popular request we place our malicious pens into the holders and bow gracefully into the night. As a farewell gesture I donate to "Dear Claire" a dictionary and a few last lines:

Farewell Dear Claire
To our little fun,
My paper's short
And the day is done.I hope foul words
Have not hurt you.
Unless they fit
As the well-known shoe.
No more battles,
Words, curses, or threats
Please hurl no more epithetsAs one who holds you very dear,
Let's drown our sorrows
In a keg of beer!

Personality Of The Week

This week we salute a woman of mystery—tall, dark, glamorous and with a charming southern accent. She has requested that her name does not appear here, so true to my word I will not mention it. Her claim to fame is merely a real southern drawl. So to this mystery woman we award one chicken dinner, guaranteed southern style at the local chicken parlor. If she will only come forward with $3.00 which is the regulation "withhold tax," for withholding her name, the dinner will be forthcoming.

Outstanding Kentuckians Gain Great Fame In Combat

By Myrtle Weathers

From the headquarters of Lt. Gen. Ira C. Eaker, Commander in chief of the Mediterranean Allied Air Force, came a letter this week telling about a University graduate who has been awarded the Air Medal with three oak leaf clusters presented to him because of outstanding achievements in the line of duty.

He is Capt. James R. Marlowe of Lexington, who successfully flew his fiftieth "golden" combat mission on October 12 when the Flying Fortresses of the 15th Air Force attacked enemy troop concentrations at Bologna, Italy. An interesting note in this special bulletin is that he is a member of the oldest heavy bombardment group in the Mediterranean Theater of Operations—a group that has flown over 350 missions, bombing enemy installations in almost every Axis-dominated country in Europe from bases in England, North Africa, Russia, and Italy.

A second letter from the 15th Air Force Squadron tells of Lt. Col. David W. Harp Jr., twenty-five year old veteran pilot from Lexington who recently received the War Department Unit Citation when recognition "for outstanding performance of duty in armed conflict with the enemy" was awarded him.

Col. Harp, whose four and a half years of active duty with the Air Force have taken him through a career of varied flying duties, was promoted to his present rank while flying combat missions from his Italian base.

He holds the Distinguished Flying Cross, awarded for extraordinary achievement in aerial flight when he flew on a mission against an industrial target deep within the German border, and the air medal with three Bronze Oak Leaf Clusters.

Typical reports can and are being made of thousands of Kentuckians all over the world. Recently Rufus L. Weaver, a graduate of 1895 and at the present a New York lawyer, submitted a letter in which he mentioned two Lexington men, 21-year-old Frank B. Kolb, who is leading his way through the Siegfried Line, and Joseph C. Clifton, who has to his credit 102 Jap planes destroyed, 78 damaged, 104,500 tons of shipping sunk, and 198,000 tons damaged. And these are only three Kentuckians out of thousands.

"In World War I," explains Mr. Rufus, "the fatalities among Kentuckians was two or three times the proportion of the population of Kentucky to the population of the United States. According to the Kentucky Almanac of last August, the University had 6,206 in the service and the number reported dead was .0172% of the 6,206." Also included in this particular issue was a large list of those who had been cited the Distinguished Flying Cross, Distinguished Service Cross, Air Medal, Oak Leaf Clusters, etc. In words of another alumnus of the same year, "Blow your own horn, else the same horn shall not be blown."

How Are You Feeling?
"Rotten," said the apple.
"Punk," said the firecracker.

THE SALT

SHAKER

Forgetting that the number he was calling was no longer on the University extension, one of the Signa Chis, when asked what number he was calling, said, "City, please." In a few seconds, a deep voice growled out, "City Police!"

Many stories have been told about the penny-pinching habits of the late John D. Rockefeller. Our favorite one concerns the time he went to a dentist to have his tooth pulled. "How much?" he asked in advance. "Three dollars," said the dentist, who didn't even know who his client was. "Humph! Three dollars to pull a tooth!" grumbled John D. "Here's a dollar. Loosen it a little bit!"

We have finally accomplished that for which we've been striving a long time. We can now inhale great quantities of smoke and swallow it completely, without exhaling a trace of it. It should be convenient when we feel the urge to smoke in classes. It really is a great discovery. You must try it some time. Our roommate became intrigued with the idea, and she tried it. It was unfortunate. She forgot that she didn't know how to smoke!

Sur-Meis-Ing

First of all I want to explain to one of our professors that those of us who wear slacks and jeans to the Sadie Hawkins Dance are not bow-legged, knock-kneed, or pigeon-toed. We also appreciated the thoughtful boys who carried checks with them Saturday night in case any of their dates ran out of money.

Who was the person who went into the Carnegie Music room in the Union, sneaked the selection he wanted to hear between Beethoven's 5th and Tchaikovsky's 6th and then waited to see the expression on our music lovers' faces when Louie Armstrong's recording of the St. Louis Blues was played?

No, it isn't true that Ernie Pyle is coming here to speak at convocation. He was invited but declined the invitation.

One of our classmates in our Journalism class decided that with only one man in our class, she should cooperate with the army and lessen the monotony of the ASTP classes. So instead of coming to our class she walked into an army lab and sat down. The prof asked her if she hadn't made a mistake. She explained that she was only trying to cooperate with the army and wanted to be in the class. The professor continued the lecture. After a while she decided that she didn't like to be ignored so she came back to her regular class where she is appreciated. (It must be the five women to every man ratio on the campus.)

Whitfield and FitzGerald, be ware! Jimmy Newton is re-writing the Rubaiyat of Omar Khayyam! Of course, it's none of our business, but we sort of liked it the way it was.

We admit that we know very little about football, and we're not complaining. But we think that our boys have the wrong attitude towards the game. We watched them at practice the other day and saw one of the men humiliate the ball. His nearest teammate shied away from it. As the opposition bore down on the loose ball, we yelled from the sidelines, "Pick it up!" And what do you think he answered? "Pick it up, hell! I didn't drop it!"

And that reminds us of the time when a pitiful little football team from a jerkwater college opened its season against one of Notre Dame's most potent eleven. The coach tried to instill some fighting spirit into his justifiably terrified boys, while they huddled in their locker room in the Notre Dame stadium. "Sure you'll get thrummed," he assured them, "but the least you can do is show that mob in the stands that you can fight to the end for your alma mater. Let's run out on that field as though we expected to win the game!"

He threw open the door of the locker room. The inspired squad dashed out with a whoop—and, as one man, fell smack into the Notre Dame swimming pool.

We feel it our duty to inform you that there are only 30 shops

We were walking along, singing a song, when we passed a photo studio which had a picture of Merl Baker in the window. Our purpose at seeing his face gave the song we were singing a rather odd ending. "It seems that happiness is just a thing called—MERL BAKER!"

From a friend in London comes the story of the two Yanks who wanted to see the War Office, but didn't know on which side of the street it was located. They hailed a passing Tommy, and asked, "Which side is the War Office on?" The Tommy thought hard for a moment and then replied, "Gorblimey! Ours—I think!"

We were slurping down a bowl of chili at a downtown spot, when a slightly inebriated gent sat down next to us at the counter. He hailed everyone who came into the place with, "Hello, Kelly!" He declared in a loud voice, to no one in particular, that he came from Texas, and began to talk about all the Spanish-speaking Mexicans in his section of the country. Turning to us, he said, "Senorita! Parlez-vous francais?"

The following definition was given by a student in an economics exam: "Consumption is when a person consumes as much as he can consume!"

In an attempt to make this column enjoyable, we have included reference to an inconsequential, tedious and completely negative campus character, known in higher circles as "The Village Idiot."

What they did in '69 helps you every day

When Professor Elisha Gray and young Enos M. Barton, not long out of college, organized in 1869 the partnership later to become Western Electric, they paved the way for many developments which have enriched your life.

For many years, the Company has been manufacturer, purchasing agent, and distributor for the Bell Telephone System, whose service you have known all your life.

Through telephone work, college trained men and women at Western Electric helped find other ways to make your life fuller and safer. For example, radio broadcasting—talking pictures—marine, aviation and police radio—train dispatching equipment—all were pioneered by Western Electric.

Today, Western Electric is doing its greatest job—turning out huge quantities of electronic and communications equipment to help our fighting men and to speed the day of Victory.

When that day comes, Western Electric will resume its 75-year-old job of making communications equipment to further enrich your life.

Measuring Up!

By Adele Denman

1. The most interesting topic for discussion about the campus is the Beauty Queen contest. Many armchair strategists chose the beauties that they considered to be the first seven to get their beauty vote. With all due respect for the judges, we shall have our mythical contest eliminate the winners of the original selection. The winners of our secondary contest, in addition to the others, are: Sue Flynn, Mary Fox Clark, Deedee Melvin, Janey Miller, Brownie Talbott, and Margaret Hollyfield.

2. I speak strictly as a non-partisan when I say, "Something should be done about the Independent party." I am ashamed of you all, so large a bunch of people as you represent, and then you see how many persons on the campus do any work for your cause.

Interest is at a minimum, don't you think, when out of four hundred members, thirteen people are present at a meeting. This information comes straight from Independent members themselves, so this is a factual gripe. As individuals, your leaders have distinguished themselves more than once. As campus figures, they are leaders, with a lot of responsibility. Then, may I ask, why don't they lead for a change? Please have mercy on my soul, when I say, you are potentially a swell group, you have a vast amount of workers to choose from—then choose them, let them work, and see what you can do about a tough situation. At present, however, I'm just ashamed of you.

3. Every year SuKy sponsors a Sadie Hawkins dance for the benefit of the students of the University. I went. I unite with the BSU in saying that some girls, if they must, should come as Daisy Mae, not Sally Rand.

4. I would not condemn a favorite campus means of recreation, for the world, but—well, I mean courtin'! Placing more woes upon the head of Eve, I blame you girls. When Henry Ford invented the automobile, he thought of how it would advance the world of science; how much noise he could make, and whether it would be a suitable place to court in.

Parking has at last come to be nationally recognized, but these "parlor dates" are becoming odious to a casual drooling bystander. Let's go easy on the woo girls. We know he is wonderful—but people, the gabby things, are talking.

5. One of this week's orchids goes to "Wash" Serini. I, truthfully do not know the boy, but I can speak truthfully, when I say that most people are wild about him. His football record is no slouch either. Another goes to Dot Evans, the little gal with the big heart, who uses it for more than the circulation of the blood. Lastly we like "George," the janitor in the bookstore. He is really a grand fellow.

6. Have you ever considered increasing your intellectual reserves? If you have, I suggest that you drop by Cincinnati, during Thanksgiving week, and see "Othello." Paul Robeson, according to many University professors, does the best acting of the century. Here's your chance for a big intellectual "scoop."

7. The girls at Jewell hall have found a solution to the tire shortage, or at least an admirer called them and asked if they would like to have her little rubber plant.

After graciously accepting the gift, dorm residents were amazed to see five men stagger in the next day with the token, an edifice that would make any tree in the North woods, bluish and say "Just call me 'Shorty'."

Thus "Dumbo" the rubber plant that ate its wheats, stands in the lounge, scraping plaster from the ceiling, and offering ample shade for goodnight farewells.

8. The winner of the "Who's Gonna Get To Play Bridge With Mr. Culbertson As His Partner" contest is Edith Conant. All she can say when addressed is "I bid two clubs" or instead of a negative answer to a question—"I pass."

9. The book if the week is Dear Sir. It is a true and exact compilation of letters written to draft boards, war plants and even Dorothy Dix. People make mistakes, but these made every blunder conceivable. For instance, one letter read:

Dear Miss Dix:
I would like to have another child, but I have read that every third baby born into the world is Chinese, do you think I should take a chance?
For best entertainment, read Dear Sir, Duell, Sloan, & Pearce, $1.00.

10. Last and Least: Brownie Talbott and an old flame, Paul Sweeney seem to be fanning the flames these days. Congratulations, Mrs. John Hudson, formerly "Beanie" Lewis. Newest sensations of the Engineering "Quad" and football teams respectively are Joe Smeeth and Tony Rotunno. Wanda Spears seems to be working on the latter sensation, with results!

Reet Pleet

By Martha Jones

If the girls who dress for the men in their lives, recently squandered their week's salaries on what they thought was a gorgeous hat, they will read this and quickly go into mourning for the rest of their lives. Men definitely do not like the hat women think they do, according to the masculine reactions at a recent millinery show in St. Louis.

The St. Louis millinery show was put on to entertain several thousand servicemen at the USO center, although there was some concern as to how interested they might be in woman's fashions. G.I. Joes from everywhere came running by the hundreds, some with their best girls clinging to their arms. They jammed against the ropes and watched in total silence as the big parade went sweeping by.

Sixty-eight hats were shown, with colors ranging from fuchsia to gold, pale blue to deep royal, clay-dull green and black. All types of hats were included, big brimmed hats with dripping veils, little hats cocked low over one eye, elegant hats in the "more hat mood," classic hats, and high draped, high priced exotic turbans.

Coming down to that cold business of voting for their favorites, the fellows cast their ballots for the conservative little numbers in the low priced bracket, much to the utter despair of the woman stylists present. Smart but not too extreme, neat not gaudy, was the boys' verdict.

The hat which brought the votes rolling in was a small bumper-brim fuchsia felt with a moderately high crown, trimmed with two little up-right fuchsia wings and matching veil. More than half the hats the boys selected were fuchsia color. They liked best the hats with brims, and turned thumbs-down on the sophisticated turbans that swath the head elegantly.

Some typical G.I. Joe comments heard behind the lines, politely sotto voce were: "Get a load of this, bud—a bird'd think it'd found a nest!" "I like black hats" (the voted for a red hat, the traitor!) "Vellis get in my way, baby!" "How could a fellow dance with a hat that big?" "I don't like the hat but I'll take the girl—yes baby."

Fifteen of the prize-winning hats were awarded to G.I. Joes at the end of the show. Most of the boys asked that the hat be sent to a wife or sweetheart in some other city.

So, when dating a service man, girls, wear a neat, sweet little hat that will cause no one to turn around and wonder if that fast drink was that strong, and that soldier will think you are too, too wonderful.

Scenes Around the Campus

At the Panhellenic dinner, Betty Yager wore a striking black taffeta dinner dress with an off-the-shoulder sleeve and black elbow length gloves. Judy Johnson wore a severely tailored butterfly yellow crepe, short sleeves, sweetheart neck with multicolored sequins around the neck and sleeves. Susan Black wore white crepe with three-quarter length sleeves and tiny jet beads around the two pockets.

Seen in the Grill catching a last-minute coke before class was Ann Frayure looking sweet in a coral gabardine jumper trimmed in a narrow band of navy blue. Helen Jones wore pale-green hand-knitted V-necked sweater and pale yellow skirt. Dede Melvin in the Union wore a bright purple suit and a white crepe blouse with white flowers around the neck and down the front.

Mrs. Peniston Says America 'Great As Musical Center'

By Casey Goman

"After thirteen years of piano, I yielded to an insatiable desire, and made the organ my career," said Mrs. Era Wilder Peniston, organist from Centre college, after her Memorial hall recital Sunday.

In an after-the-concert interview with the guest artist, I was interested in discussing the organ as a vehicle for modern music. Mrs. Peniston, who is fully versed in the possibilities of the instrument, in answer to my question, suggested that for a theatre organ so-called "popular" music is very well suited, but not for a concert instrument. "There is," she said, "plenty of opportunity in the classical field for a concert organist."

Mrs. Peniston added her voice to the growing acclamation of America as a musical center. "The prospects are greater than ever. The war is very probably responsible," she said. "There is a pressing need to cultivate embryonic American composers, of which there are many."

Mrs. Peniston expressed her appreciation for her gracious audience here at the University.

Dr. Huntley Dupre Working With WSSF In New York

By Jim Wood

Dr. Huntley Dupre, former professor of history at the University, is now actively engaged in his duties as executive secretary of the World Student Service in New York city.

Dr. Dupre, who had been with the University since 1937, resigned late in the summer of this year and began his present work with the service on the first of November.

The World Student Service is an organization of American students to contribute toward educational rehabilitation of students in war-torn countries. And in the field of international affairs, politics and history Dr. Dupre has had extensive education and experience.

For four years following the first World War, Dr. Dupre was connected with student relief work in Europe, and was director of the "Studentski Domov," a great international student union in Prague, Czechoslovakia. This union had a self-governing body of twenty nationalities, and housed the European Student relief, along with the Christian movements of Czechoslovakia.

Germany, the Ukraine and Russia. In 1937 Dr. Dupre was decorated by the Czechoslovakian government in recognition of the remarkable service he rendered through the "Studentski Domov."

Dr. Dupre has been with the faculties of several American universities including Ohio State University, where he was junior dean of the College of Arts and Sciences.

In 1937 Dr. Dupre was honored by the University of Kentucky as the most outstanding professor, and was later honored by his faculty colleagues by being named one of the four men to give the first lectures in an annual series by leading scholars of the University.

A native of Ohio, Dupre secured his higher education at Ohio State University where he received the A.B. degree, and later the LL.B., the A.M. and the Ph.D. His teaching and writing have been primarily in the field of modern and contemporary European history and American diplomacy.

As executive secretary of the WSSF, Dr. Dupre succeeds Miss Wilhelmina Rowland, who has resigned to serve on the staff of the European Student Relief fund.

The Central Christian church will have a special Thanksgiving program Sunday night.

The Calvary Baptist young people will meet at 6:15 p.m. Sunday at the church.

The Hill Youth group will hold a supper beginning at 4 p.m. at the Temple Adath Israel. Zionism will be discussed.

The Westminster fellowship will meet at the Maxwell Street Presbyterian church at 6:30 p.m. Sunday for supper and program. Following there will be a discussion of "The Christian Attitude Toward Campus Politics."

The BYPU of the Immanuel Baptist church will meet at 6:30 p.m. Sunday at the church. Jim Little will be the guest speaker.

Lil' Abner Done Run!

By Ruth Perlmuter

Sadie Hawkins' week has come and gone but the reaction is still here. Many a little freshman girl is still ga-ga-eyed over the football hero she dragged to the Sadie Hawkins' dance Saturday night. Many a green male thinks the University is a wonderful place where the women all open the doors for the men and send them corsages.

One shy engineering freshman, when asked about Sadie Hawkins' week, said the dance was wonderful. "I was never so rushed in my life," he giggled.

A husky footballer turned pale and said, "Never again. One onion corsage a lifetime is enough for me."

Another indignant male snorted. "I think it is a lot of fun and all of that, but when she asked me to invite her home to spend a quiet evening instead of going out, that was the limit. We went out."

Two freshmen, roommates, took the week so seriously that they are all worn out. They carried everything from slide rules to reference books for their ideals; they bought sodas in the grill; they bought lunches in the cafeteria, and when they finally worked up the nerve to ask them to the dance, both men had dates. Such is life!

Although there were some complaints about inflating male egos further and "why have a special week when some girls chase the men all the time," all in all, everyone agreed that they had a lot of fun during the week and the dance was "swell."

Dogpatch Honored At SuKy's Annual Sadie Hawkins Hop

Jane Kingston, Arts and Sciences freshman, Evansville, Ind., and Herbert Patton, Ithaca, N. Y., were chosen as Daisy Mae and Lil' Abner at the annual Sadie Hawkins' dance held last Saturday.

They were elected on the basis of costume, physical appearance, and Dogpatch behavior.

Dean L. J. Horlacher, Mrs. Dorothy Evans, Mrs. Elizabeth Moores, Mr. Victor R. Portmann, and Mr. and Mrs. Duane Van Horne were judges.

Mr. Patton was graduated from Cornell University and is now assistant veterinarian in the department of animal pathology.

Stags were auctioned off to the highest female bidder as dates for the evening and proceeds from the auction were donated to the Athletic Alumni association for a football plaque to honor University athletes.

The Kampus Knights furnished music for the dance.

Lexingtonians Meet, Marry, Find Success In New York

By Dora Lee Robertson

Once upon a time two Lexingtonians who attended the University and yet never knew each other, went to New York, met, fell in love, married, and became successful, he with his music and she with her paintings. They are Mr. and Mrs. Tom Scott.

Tom Scott opened a series of concerts with a program of American folk songs at McMillin theatre, Columbia University, November 1. On the same day, Mrs. Scott (Joy Pride), opened an exhibition of her paintings at the Circle Gallery, Hollywood, Calif.

To Give Concerts
Shortly after Mr. Scott's concert at Columbia, he and Mrs. Scott left for North Carolina and Mississippi, where he will give several concerts.

The concert at Columbia university included songs from all sections of America which he presented in four groups—work songs, cross-country songs, songs of the southern Appalachian mountains, and spirituals.

Interested In Folk Music
Mr. Scott has been interested in folk music of America for a number of years and has experimented with various uses of it. He has made numerous arrangements of our native music for orchestra and chorus. A series of his orchestral arrangements was broadcast by Fred Waring as a regular weekly feature under the title, "America, I Hear You Singing," and over 100 of his published choral arrangements are used by professional and amateur choral groups throughout the country.

The University glee club under the direction of Miss Mildred Lewis featured some of these in concerts last spring. Mr. Scott has made use of folk music in some of his original compositions, particularly "Hornpipe and Chantey," a recently completed score for symphony orchestra.

Will Exhibit Paintings
Mrs. Scott, who paints under her maiden name, Joy Pride, will exhibit paintings done this past summer while she and Mr. Scott were in California. Most of the works are abstract landscapes characterized by the brilliant color and rather exotic shapes typical of southern California. Oil and tempera are the media used for these pictures. Mrs. Scott had an exhibition of small sketches at Shaw-

Refugee Lives Lifetime In 17 Years

By Mary Louise Patton

Simone Hemling, French refugee and a sophomore at the University, has already lived a lifetime of exciting adventure in 17 short years.

She left France with her mother, Mrs. Flora Hemling, and her brother, Andre, 21, after the Germans had taken over her home town of Colmar in Alsace. The Hemling family arrived in Wilmington, Delaware, January, 1942, after spending 18 days on a cargo boat with only two other passengers.

Simone said her first glimpse of the Germans was when they came into the town of Pan, where her family had gone when the invaders had come into Colmar, stopped at her house to get food and demanded butter which they ate without spreading it on bread. They set up their headquarters in the city hall of Pan and began immediately to ration food to the citizens of the town. As they were only allowed one egg a month, Simone says she still regards an egg as a great luxury.

The "Boche," said Simone, took several of her friends and relatives as prisoners. One cousin was put in a prison in France and finally released to work on the farms for the Germans. His parents were allowed to visit him and they helped him escape by smuggling him over the border into unoccupied France.

A friend of Simone's, in a French prison taken over by the Germans, was secretly given his freedom by a German captain. "He had a great talent for cooking," said Simone, "and cooked for the captain when he was in the prison." The captain promised to grant any favor he asked, and was finally persuaded to give him back his freedom.

It took the Hemling family over a year to get their passports all in order for the voyage to this country. Their biggest trouble was getting a passport for Andre, since he was of military age. They reached Spain, December 6, 1941 and heard the next day that America had entered the war.

When they first arrived here Andre was the only one of the three who could speak English, but Simone has learned to speak fluently, but with some accent after more than two years here.

Simone said the Allied and the German army are now fighting close to her hometown, Colmar. Since she has been in America she has heard only once from her relatives. A short time after Paris was liberated she received a letter from an aunt telling her they were all well and overjoyed to be liberated and that an American soldier was instrumental in getting the message mailed to her.

Simone said that from all she had seen and heard in France that our war news in the U.S. was very mild indeed. A friend of hers was released from a concentration camp after spending several months there and told of most horrible conditions.

The people here are very friendly and helpful, Simone says. She likes

Dr. Williams Speaks To Home Economics Association Today

At the opening session of the 1944 meeting of the Kentucky Home Economics association this afternoon on the University campus, Dr. B. O. Williams, head of the sociology department of the University of Georgia, will be the principal speaker.

Registration for the two-day meeting will open at 1 p.m. today. Miss Iris Davenport, associate editor of the Southern Agriculturalist, Nashville, Tenn., will speak at an informal dinner at 7 p.m. at the Phoenix hotel.

Members of the association will have breakfast at 8 a.m. Saturday in the Home Economics building, will hold a business session at 9:15 a.m., and will hear addresses by Miss Leah Parker, home economist for the Tennessee Valley Authority, and Miss Davenport.

Dr. Ratliff Speaks To Business Women

Dr. Margaret Ratliff, professor of clinical psychology at the University, spoke to members of the Lexington Business and Professional Women's Club at their November dinner-meeting Tuesday night at the Lafayette hotel.

QUICK FACTS ABOUT ESSENTIAL SERVICES

BUY MORE WAR BONDS

☆ Laundry service is an essential service. Like railroads, telephone companies, hospitals, our laundry SUPPORTS THE WAR EFFORT. Yet we do so in the face of difficult wartime handicaps. For example, there is less gasoline, no new trucks or equipment available, and fewer workers in our laundry. But we are carrying on and will continue to do so in the face of these difficulties. And with victory and the lifting of government restrictions, A FINER LAUNDRY SERVICE WILL BE YOURS AGAIN.

Jewell Hall Holds Pin-Up Party

A "Pin-Up Party" to choose the glamour man of Jewell hall, junior and senior women's residence hall, will be held Monday night at 11 p.m. in the dormitory. Judges who will choose the winner from among pictures submitted by the hall's 103 women, include Mrs. Dorothy Evans, Miss Margie McLaughlin, Miss Helen King, Miss Jeanette Graves, and Miss Ann Callahan.

The theme of pictures will be carried out throughout the evening in the program and decorations. A group of songs including "The Very Thought of You" and other sentimental ballads will be sung by Betty Harris Russell, and Elsie Dotson will sing a Kentucky mountain ballad. M. Smith, Leota Meade, and Zell Goldenberg will also appear on the program.

Chairman of the room committee is Helen Davis; of the picture committee, Smitty McMurtry; and of the art committee, Maryann Macke.

Prizes to the ten winning men will be awarded Monday evening, each accompanied by a letter informing him he has been named an honorary resident of Jewell hall. Cigarettes to be divided among the five runners-up will be collected as entry fees; each picture must be qualified by a package of cigarettes.

Basis of the judging will not be uniforms, although most pictures in dormitory rooms are pictures of men in armed service.

"Oh Marie, Je t'adore."
"Shut it yourself. You opened it."

UK Honors Lieut. Beasley

A Dingus tree was planted in memory of First Lt. Virgil K. Beasley, University College of Law graduate during a ceremony which was held Memorial day on the University campus near the law building. The tree-planting was arranged by Lieutenant Beasley's mother, Mrs. Virginia Beasley in tribute to her son who was killed in action during the North African Invasion November 11, 1942.

Mrs. Virgil McCURE made the introductory remarks at the ceremony. In the absence of Col. Brewer, Dr. A. E. Evans, dean of the College of Law, spoke on "The Law Student." Bart N. Peak, secretary of the University YMCA, made a brief talk on the social life of Lt. Beasley, and Lt. James Ireland, United States Army Air Forces, a close friend of Lt. Beasley, read the presidential citation.

A bronze plate with Lieutenant Beasley's name and rank on it will be placed on the tree by the University.

While at the University, Lieutenant Beasley was listed in "Who's Who in American Universities and Colleges" in 1940-41, a member of Scaddard and Blade, national honorary military fraternity, Phi Alpha Delta, legal fraternity, president of the Student Bar Association, and a member of Alpha Tau Omega, social fraternity.

At Fort Knox, Lieutenant Beasley was made Commanding officer of the sixth infantry of the first army division before he went overseas.

Mrs. Anita Davis Resigns Position

Mrs. Anita Burnham Davis, a field agent in 4H Club work for 24 years in the College of Agriculture, has resigned. It has been announced by Dean L. J. Horlacher.

She is now living with her husband, Capt. Benjamin H. Davis, who is stationed at a prisoner of war camp in Hereford, Texas.

YM-YWCA Holds Noonday Services In Union Building

Concluding the observance of a Week of World Fellowship and Prayer, the YMCA and YWCA will hold the last of its noonday prayer services at 12:30 today in the Music room of the Union building.

For the past week, YM-YW members and students all over the world have joined together in prayer at this hour.

Miss Dorothy Collins, YWCA secretary, emphasized the fact that all University students were invited to attend these meetings. Today's group will pray for students all over the world. Carol Dodd will give a short prayer.

On each day a different "leader of the day" gave the prayer, and religious music was played. Worship for different causes was offered at each meeting.

The programs were: Monday—for the people of Europe, Joan Scott and Ed Barry; Tuesday—for the people of the Far East, Melrose McGurk; Wednesday—for less fortunate persons, Virginia Ray; and Thursday—for men and women in the armed forces, Nancy Lockery. Those in charge of the worship are members of the Worship committee of the YWCA.

Alicia Coffin To Visit Campus

Alicia Coffin, traveling secretary of the World Student Service fund, will speak to both the Upperclass fellowship and Freshman club on November 28.

Miss Coffin has been acquainted with the World Student Service fund for the past several years and with its enterprise of world student relief. She will discuss the most recent news about the work of student relief and describe the problems that refugee students face in Europe and China and the needs of prisoners of war. She comes to the campus as a representative of students all over the world.

Miss Coffin was a graduate of the University of Maine in the class of 1943. Last year she was at the University of Nebraska as a Danforth Fellow. She was active in the Christian association at Maine and was president of the YWCA in her senior year.

'Kentucky: Designs For Her Future' Will Be Ready For Distribution In 1945

By Martha Yates

Kentucky: Designs For Her Future, a constructive criticism of the past and an analysis of Kentucky's potentialities, will be ready for distribution early in 1945. Howard W. Beers, editor of the book and professor of rural sociology at the University, has announced.

Written and edited by many of the foremost minds in the state, many University faculty members contributed to the book. Dr. Herman Lee Donovan, University president, wrote the introduction.

Within its 13 chapters of excellent analysis and practical solutions, the fields of agriculture, chemistry, education, economics, geology, history, government, and sociology are discussed with the goal of Kentucky's prosperity constantly in mind. The book began to take form in discussions about Kentucky's post-war future long before the current craze began. Thirty programs of this nature were presented over WHAS.

Those who have written the thirteen chapters of the book are: Howard W. Beers, Thomas D. Clark, Dana G. Card, Arthur C. McFarlan, William R. Allen, Marshall D. Keckum, Laurence L. Quill, Godman Sullivan, James W. Martin, Maurice F. Seay, Irwin T. Sanders. Dr. Beers edited three of the chapters. The chapters are headed: Peace in the Commonwealth, Kentucky Heritage, The Energy of Three Million People, Agriculture and Forestry, The Wealth in Rocks and Streams, Wildlife and Outdoor Kentucky, Industrial Resources and Resourcefulness, New Products From Old Materials, Lanes of Travel, Government—The People's Business, Education in Kentucky, Health and Welfare, and Goals for Kentucky.

Tom Wallace of the Louisville Times, Mark Ethridge and Russell Briney of the Courier-Journal, Fred Wechs, W. T. Rainey, and A. B. Guthrie of the Herald-Leader advised also.

In the introductory chapter written by Mr. Beers, he states: "Due credit must be given for the desirable things that have happened, but the task of this book is to stimulate understanding of the need for things that have not yet happened, to single out and explain opportunities for development, and to promote greater achievement in the future than has occurred in the past."

The problem is approached by following three points: first, the discussion of things as they are; second, the planned-for goals; and third, the solution, the actual "being of the things-as-they-are" to the goals planned for. In other words, the questions are asked: what are the problems? What is the best way to solve those problems?

Political development, rise of cities, stream of utilization, flood control, exploitation vs. conservation, coal resources, educational development, highways, government, and health improvement are discussed fully.

Members of the University faculty who have contributed to this valuable book are A. J. Brown, Thomas Poe Cooper, C. S. Crouse, E. N.

A. O. Stanley Speaks To AST

By Frances Keller

Mr. A. O. Stanley, former governor of Kentucky and one-time United States Senator, in an address to the AST men and social studies classes at the University last Friday, stated that "only great hearts, great minds, and great souls are filled with the fire and high ambition to be of service."

Senator Stanley stressed the word "service." "It is better never to have been born if you did not fill a place, which in a measure you did not make happier, better, and safer," he said.

The senator urged students to make the most of their college years. He told of his own great love for the University. "As I look back on my college years I still long for delightful study, wise I can contemplate undisturbed the shining face of truth." He went on to say that it is in college that we develop the mind and see intellect—the master of the land, sea, and air—at work.

Quoting Shakespeare's immortal words, the senator said to the assembly, "This above all: To thine own self be true; And it must follow, as the night the day, Thou canst not then be false to any man."

The statesman also referred to Leigh Hunt's great poem when he said, "And when life is through let it be said, as of Ben Adhem, he or she loved his fellow-men."

In closing Senator Stanley said, "Tell the truth and shame the devil. Seek the truth. It's not how many things you remember but whether they are true or not."

President H. L. Donovan introduced Senator Stanley and told something of his life. He attended the University of Kentucky and Centre College where he received his LL.D. For the past 15 years he has served on the United States-Canada Boundary commission. Dr. Donovan said of him, "He is probably the most distinguished orator Kentucky ever had, and one of the best orators the nation ever had. He is the first University student to become governor of the state."

Fergus, W. P. Garrigus, K. O. Gustafson, E. J. Kinney, L. E. Meese, S. A. Money, Merton Oylor, H. Bruce Price, Margaret Ratcliffe, J. E. Reeves, Lolo Robinson, J. B. Shannon, J. Allan Smith, Elmer Sulzer, W. S. Taylor, L. A. Vennes, G. H. Wiggin, and Robin Williams.

W. Brooks Hamilton, of the University health and hygiene department, is illustrating the book with timely examples showing the subjects under discussion, and J. S. Horine is constructing the charts, assisted by Mardelle Lehnig.

Members of the Haggin Fund Publication committee, contributed helpful suggestions. They are Frank McVey, W. D. Funkhouser, Edward West and E. F. Parquhar.

Others who have been working on Kentucky: Designs For Her Future are M. B. Hoffield, assistant to the attorney general, Louisville; J. E. Marks, attorney, Lexington; Washington Reed of Kentucky Utilities; comptroller and commissioner of Economic Development; State Department of Health; State Department of Welfare; State Department of Education; John J. Cronin and Robert L. Kutak of the University of Louisville; Charles F. Isaacs, secretary of Lexington and Fayette county Community Chest; W. P. King and John Brooker of the Kentucky Education Association, and W. A. Duerr, U. S. Forest Service.

The necessity of keeping our attitudes modern and up-to-date is emphasized in the fields of the sciences.

The book closes with these words: "Kentucky in retrospect is proudly poor, romantic, and great; in prospect—and by plan—Kentucky is comfortably well-to-do, still romantic, and ever greater."

University Coeds Approve Of Mammy Yokum's Pipe

By Frances Jenkins

Is it the cigarette shortage or the influence of Sadie Hawkins' week and Mammy Yokum's famous corn-cob pipe that causes the hangouts of University students to seek with a aroma of burning leaves?

Whatever the reason, not only the men, but many coeds have become pipe connoisseurs. Most of the gals are sticking to the ole corn-cob, but by Christmas they will no doubt be asking Santa to please bring them a Meerschaum.

And about that aroma of burning leaves, it isn't always caused by cheap tobacco or by that quarter pipe you bought while hoping against hope that the cigarette shortage wouldn't last. When your pipe gets clogged, and smelly, don't run and give it a bubble bath. First, rush to your nearest corner-drug store and purchase a box of pipe cleaners. If, because of wartime shortages, they do not have the above mentioned, a good substitute is a broom straw.

After obtaining a pipe cleaner (or some reasonable facsimile), sit down—pipe in hand—and disconnect the stem of the pipe from the bowl.

Next, insert the cleaner into the pipe stem and go to work—back and forth—round and around, and presto!! The pipe is as good as new. You may then lean back and light up. But don't blame me if your "roomie" still calls you the Lonesome Polecat and refuses to associate with you.

While interviewing a few members of the Fill Your Pipe or Roll Your Own club, I got the following reports.

One faithful member said, "I'm in no condition to give any comments right now. I just finished a pipe full of homespun. It may be good enough for Mammy Yokum but give me Rum and Maple."

A little freshman girl said, "If the movie actresses can smoke it so can I."

An A.S.T. private said, "I'm only

Kentucky Author Donates Books To UK Library

Approximately 2,500 finely bound old books, covering English history, philosophy and literature have been donated to the University library by Mrs. Stuart Chevalier (Mrs. Elizabeth Pickett Chevalier) author of the best seller "Drivin' Woman."

The books were presented to the library on behalf of Mrs. Chevalier's late father, Montgomery Pickett, in honor of his father Joseph D. Pickett, who was the second president of the University.

The collection of books is from the library of Rosemont, the Pickett estate overlooking the Ohio River near

YM-YW Will Hold Special Service Tuesday Night

The YM and YWCA will hold a special Thanksgiving service at 6:30 p.m. Tuesday in the ballroom of the Union building. The Upperclass and Freshman club will meet together. Guest speaker will be Dr. Henry N. Sherwood, of the Political Science department.

The special Thanksgiving service will consist of the following: call to worship, Warren Fisher; invocation, Ed Barry; hymn, "Prayer of Thanksgiving"; responsive reading, Psalm 92, Monte Drake, ASPT; prayer, Joan Scott; trio, "The Lord's Prayer," Sue Thomas, Jane Thomas, and Melrose McGurk; Barbara Allen, flute; Ed Barry will pronounce the benediction.

All students and A.S.T. ASTR men are invited.

Amateur Photos To Be Exhibited In Union Building

An amateur photograph exhibit, under the direction of the Student Union Art and Poster committee, will be shown in the Music room of the Union building from November 24 until the end of the quarter. Elizabeth Crapster, chairman of the committee, has announced.

Faculty, students, and any persons interested may enter photographs in the exhibit, in Room 121 of the Union building before Monday, November 20. The office is open from 10 to 12 noon and from 1:30 to 5 p.m. The Art committee and faculty advisors will select those pictures to be put on exhibition, and judges will rate the pictures according to merit.

Margaret Tindler is the Art and Poster committee secretary, and Nancy Skoen is publicity chairman. Other members are Jane Hammersley, Blanche Wagner, Ja neellen Buchanan, Elizabeth Walters, Evelyn Green, and Elizabeth Gregg.

Luncheon Held For Stanleys In Jewell Hall

A University luncheon was held at noon Friday in the dining room of Jewell hall in honor of Mr. and Mrs. A. O. Stanley, who have been the guests of Dr. and Mrs. Herman Lee Donovan for the last few days.

Mr. Stanley, an alumnus of the University and former governor of the state, was also United States senator from 1919 to 1925. At present he is a member of the International Joint committee for settling disputes between the United States and Canada.

Former Student Killed In Action

Capt. Carleton C. Moore Jr., former University student, has been reported killed in action over England, according to word received here recently by his family. Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Moore Sr., 135 Owsley avenue, Lexington.

Captain Moore had been presented a combat proficiency award for exceptionally meritorious achievement while serving as the lead bombardier in an attack on Tolouse, France.

He attended the University and entered the Army in 1942.

The other day some one asked one of the wittier wits of the campus at West Virginia U. which you say, "The baby is toothing" or "the baby is teething."

The student answered, "You say it's toothing until it gets two teeth and then it's teething."

Major To Address Koffee Klub Today

Major Polham Johnson, of the United States Army, will discuss his experiences in China and India at a meeting of the Koffee Klub at 4 p.m. today in the Music room of the Union building.

Major Johnson has just returned from overseas and is now registered as a student in the Law college, while he is on terminal leave.

Coffee will be served following the address. Members in charge of the arrangements are Ruthie Dimmock, Frances Fields, Ridgley Park, Marjorie Mitchell, Frances Lawton, Vella Karriek Wise, Mary Dunlap, Louise Milward, Georgianne Moss, Martha Gayle, and Isabelle Le Pas.

UK Stock Entered

Livestock from the University Experiment Station farm will be exhibited at the Chicago Market Fat Stock and Carlot Competition to be held December 2 to 7 at the Chicago Stock Yards, it has been announced.

The University has listed entries for Hampshire, Southdown and Cheviot sheep classes of this event which has been held for the past two years during the same week that the International Live Stock exposition formerly took place. The International show was canceled for the duration of the war following the 1941 exposition.

Club To Present Musical Program In Memorial Hall

The Cincinnati Musical Arts Trio will be presented by the MacDowell Club in a program of music from the best known composers at 8:15 p.m. Tuesday in Memorial hall.

The trio are Ruth Grizmer, violinist; Marian Beers, cellist; and Parvati Tiltus, pianist. Miss Grizmer and Miss Beers are members of the faculty of the Cincinnati Conservatory of Music. Miss Beers is also one of the four women members of the Cincinnati Symphony. Mr. Tiltus is the official organist of the Cincinnati Symphony, and is organist and choirmaster of the Christ Episcopal church in Cincinnati.

The program is as follows: Trio in D Minor, Mendelssohn; Romance, Wienawski, played by Ruth Grizmer; violinist, Lullaby, Cyril Scott; Allegretto, Lalo, played by Marian Beers, cellist; and Trio in C Minor, Brahms.

Club membership cards will admit one to the program. Guest cards may be purchased for fifty cents.

"Don't let it happen again," was all Harold Ahlgren, instructor in English, at Wayne University, could say when he picked up the door that fell between two Convention Hall rooms while he was discussing the fine points of literary construction with his English class.

Russell Briney

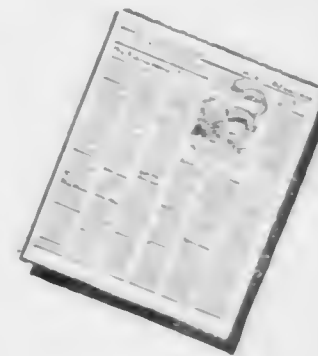

Chief Editorial Writer of The Courier-Journal, has been a close student of politics and government throughout his varied journalistic career, covering the past quarter century. Eminent, readable, his editorials reflect a keenly analytical mind. In appearance Briney could easily pass for one of the more sedate lads on any campus, affecting bow ties and a center part in his hair... rarely graced by a hog. His humor is dryly academic... used chiefly to harpoon his colleagues. Son, and grandson of revered Louisville churchmen, Russell Briney is cast in the mold of the best traditions of Kentucky. He is the corner-stone of all America's institutions... and the world's tomorrows!

Educated in Louisville public schools, and at the University of Virginia, he joined The Courier-Journal in 1920. Moving through a kaleidoscopic career as a newspaperman, in contact with the world of men and affairs, Briney traveled Europe, toured America and Canada with notables, sat on state and national sidelines of government, measured economic resources, witnessed legal bouts at famous trials. At twenty-seven he showed promise of rare editorial acumen... and was made Associate Editor of The Louisville Times. In the same year, the Brineys' son (now seventeen) was born. By 1942, when Herbert Agar went into active service in the Navy, Russell Briney was placed in command of the editorial pages of The Courier-Journal.

Wildcats Tackle Vols Saturday, November 25

Coaches Confident, Team In Condition For Final Battle

By Betty Tevis

This game with Tennessee is strictly a players' game, with every man on the Kentucky squad determined to beat the Volunteers who drubbed them in Knoxville two months ago. They don't say much about it, but none of the Blue and White men have forgotten that solemn ride back from Vol territory when they vowed to avenge the 26-13 defeat suffered at Tennessee's hands.

Suffer Defeats

Since then the Wildcats have suffered stiff defeats, 41-0 to Alabama, 26-0 to Mississippi State, but the prime objective has always been to defeat Tennessee. And now the 'Cats are in better condition than ever before, with back Jim Howe in the game again, and Chambers off the injured list. Darkest spots in the Kentucky campaign are the loss of Floyd Short, center, and Doc Ferrell, guard.

But the combination which meets Tennessee will be the winning one that sneered Ole Miss in the season's first game. Tried in the West Virginia encounter on November 18, the set-up should be in top form for the 25th.

Vols Hold Trophy

Records in 38 Tennessee-Kentucky encounters give the Vols 21 wins, Kentucky 11 wins, and 6 ties. Last Wildcat victory came in 1935 when the 'Cats triumphed 27-0, but since that year, the Beer Keg, trophy of the classic, has remained in Knoxville. Statistics give the edge to Tennessee, but those who know Kentucky's enthusiasm rate the 'Cats a good chance to topple Tennessee.

Statistics for the series follow:

Capurso Speaks To Lecture Series

Dr. A. A. Capurso, head of the University Department of Music, will give the fourth and last lecture in the annual lecture series of 1944 sponsored by the College of Arts and Sciences at 8 p.m. Thursday in Memorial Hall. He will speak on the subject, "Social and Aesthetic Values in Music."

The three previous lectures in this series were delivered by Dr. W. D. Funkhouser, Dr. A. C. McFarlan and Dr. T. D. Clark.

Mrs. McVey Home

Mrs. Frances Jewell McVey, wife of Dr. Frank L. McVey, president emeritus of the University, has returned to her home in Lexington after several weeks in the hospital at Ann Arbor, Mich.

Mrs. McVey, who underwent a major operation, is reported to be convalescing very satisfactorily.

Louise Fleming To Visit Campus

Miss Louise Fleming, national student personnel secretary, will be on the University campus November 27-29 to interpret the program of the YWCA.

She will be guest at the YWCA cabinet meeting on Tuesday afternoon and at the YWCA advisory board meeting on Wednesday afternoon.

AGD's Entertain With Coffee Hour

Epsilon chapter of Alpha Gamma Delta will entertain with an open house for all University men from 4 to 6 Friday, November 24.

Sara Dee Rainey, social chairman, is in charge of arrangements.

Basketball Revived December 2, As UK Meets Servicemen

By Dick Lowe

Basketball is slowly but surely, and unnoticed by many, pushing football from the sports picture. Just two weeks from tomorrow the first game of the season will be played when the University engages a service team at Fort Knox Saturday night, December 2.

Parker, Allen, Moseley, Tingle, and Parkinson, five members from last year's team and 14 other boys, mostly freshmen inexperienced in collegiate competition, make up the squad of 19 boys. Dward Compton, 23-year-old 6-5 center, is the only ex-service man on the squad. He spent nine months in the army at Camp Cook in California. Parkinson and Tingle were chosen as members of the all-Southeastern Conference team last year. They should show the way to victory and prove a powerful asset to the team.

Coach Rupp has been using on his first team those who will probably make up the starting line-up: Jack Tingle, 20-year-old 6-2 sophomore from Bradford, and Clyde Cooper, 20-year-old 5-11 freshman from Brooksville, as forwards; Alex Groza, 18-year-old 6-6 freshman from Martins Ferry, Ohio at center; Tom Moseley, 20-year-old 6-3 junior from Lexington, and Bill Sturgill, 20-year-old 6 foot junior from Prestonsburg, at guards. The aggressive play of Durham, Staugh, Sparkman, Nelson, and Waite will push the first team hard for starting berths. At the close of the football season, Wilbur Schu, Jim Howe, Bill Chambers, Ken Campbell, Norman Weiner and Jack Schiffl, will change uniforms and strengthen the team, giving the present members of the squad a hot challenge for starting positions.

The University of Kentucky has scheduled 21 games this season. Their big test will be when they play the University of Wyoming at Buffalo, N. Y.; Temple University at Philadelphia, and the University of Long Island at Madison Square Garden in New York city over the Christmas holidays.

Starting the season with only five experienced men, Coach Rupp has taught 19 young Wildcats finesse and timing that should thrill fans the country over. The glory and tradition of winning teams from the Bluegrass is famous and the eyes of every sports fan will be upon the University of Kentucky, from the opening whistle. The present squad has showed great possibilities of being equal to last year's team which won national honor as semi-finalists in the All-American playoff, competing with the best-picked teams of the country. Coach Rupp is well pleased with the team's spirit and play and the prediction is for another great year in the history of basketball at the University of Kentucky.

Little Will Play Against His Buddy In Saturday's Tilt

By Dick Lowe

Two lifelong friends, Tom, Little, end for the University's football team, and Jim Walthall, tailback for the University of West Virginia, will see each other Saturday on Stoll field for the first time in nearly a year. Things won't be quite the same as they have always been, for this time they will be on opposite sides, playing against each other, instead of side-by-side as it once was. Friendship will momentarily be forgotten as each fellow tries to gain the victory for his respective team.

Growing up in the same neighborhood, they were inseparable. They played six years of football together, two years at junior high and four years at Princeton high. The first time they were ever separated was when Tom came to the University of Kentucky and Jim went to the University of West Virginia. They were both offered scholarships here but Jim Walthall followed his family's wishes and decided to go to West Virginia.

Lee Patten, who is now at New Rochelle, N. Y., was their high school coach, and during their last year at Princeton high, the school had its best football and basketball season in its history. They played on the West Virginia State All-Star team. Playing with the team of the South they helped in the victory over the North, 9-7.

These two friends are about the same size, both being over six feet tall and weighing nearly 175 pounds. They both are 18 years old and are waiting for their calls from the armed forces.

Walthall was rated by the sports writers over college men as last year's outstanding athlete in West Virginia, although he was still in high school. Tom Little rates him as a grand fellow and his best friend.

A large crowd is expected to witness this contest and all eyes will be on these friendly rivals in a game which should prove thrilling.

From The Bleachers

By Betty Tevis

Again we publish the words to the Kentucky Fight song which students seem to like. First, however, we'd like to pacify a million ex-Kentuckians who might think we're trying to crowd out the immortal "On, On U. of K." Hardly. We're just trying to add another song to vary our repertoire which is so limited. And this is a good, forceful, catchy song:

Kentucky, we will meet the foe,
 Kentucky, onward we will go,
 Kentucky, we all hail to thee—
 And victors we will be today,
 yah, yah, yah.

Kentucky, hit the line real hard,
 Kentucky, fight for every yard,
 And you'll win for the blue and white—
 So, yea you Wildcats, fight, fight, fight.

SuKy is planning a big rally on the Friday before we play Tennessee when the song will be introduced. Save this paper, if you can, so you'll have the words.

Besides the fact that Tom Little's best friend is playing opposite him this Saturday, we found that Hugh Shannon and Bill Chambers played ball with four of the West Virginia men back in the days when they starred for the Huntington High Pony Express team.

A distinction of some kind belongs to Doc Ferrell who received his orders to report to Louisville yesterday morning ready to go to the Navy. Doc is the only football man to be snatched by the Army or Navy this season. Last year's basketball team averaged a loss a week to the Navy. And it looks like this court season will also be plagued by the same problem, for half the players are 17-year-olds. As the Army itself would say: 'Things are tough all over.'

He's A Poet At Heart

By Casey Goman

Dr. Alexander Capurso, head of the Music department, wrote a paper. Long and many were the hours which went into the preparation of this speech, which was presented November 16 in Memorial Hall.

"Doc" must snatch every spare hour, or part thereof, to work on said paper, and more often than not he was locked away in some secluded room of the music building.

One day, as he slaved upon his brainchild, an incident occurred, and a poem was born, to wit: "The Sounds That Once—An Ode to Capurso."

Our Center's walls are mighty thin,
 They let all sounds float through.
 When practice hours are in full swing
 There's an awful hallelaloo.

There's really not a quiet place
 Where one can plan and think.
 From all directions, "do, re, mi's,"
 Fight "plinkety, plinkety, plink."

One day not long ago, while working on his speech
 "Doc" sought a little quiet where he'd be out of reach.

He went to Room 14
 And firmly turned the lock,
 But hardly had he settled down
 Before he got a shock.

From Mr. Kuhlman's studio
 Weird sounds came through the air
 Which made Doc's pen-hand falter
 And made him tear his hair.

He wrote, "Music is beautiful"
 (LET YOUR DIAPHRAGM EXPAND)
 "Music is more than form"
 (THAT'S AN AWKWARD WAY YOU STAND)

"Music's Art—not Science"
 (OPEN WIDER PLEASE)
 "It fires the heart—brings tears to eyes"
 (LET'S DO SOME MI MI MI'S)

"A language of the nations"
 (SING LEE, LI, LO, LU)
 "Music—" "Oh, Blankety blank"—
 Doc slammed the door and flew.

SuKy Will Hold Pep Rally Friday

SuKy, the University pep organization, will hold a pep rally at 7:30 p.m. Friday, November 24, in the football stadium on Stoll field.

Speeches by coaches and captains of both teams will be made, and the new University school song will be introduced.

Following the pep rally, the band and students will form a snake dance down town. In case of bad weather, the rally will be held in the gymnasium.

SuKy is giving two prizes to any organization that has the best decorations illustrating the defeat of the Vols. The decorations must be up by 11 a.m. Saturday and the judging will be held at noon.

Any organization desiring to compete for the prizes, should see Betty Harris as soon as possible.

Military Drill Given At Half

Memorial Plaque To Be Dedicated

The Best Band in Dixie, 50 of the K-Dets, and 50 of the men of Company A, ASTP, will present an exhibition drill at the half of the Tennessee-Kentucky football game November 25, it was announced today.

Plaque To Be Dedicated

During the half, a War Memorial plaque dedicated to the University athletes who have given their lives in World War II, will be presented by the Alumni association.

Capt. Robert Stivers, of the Military Science department, and Dr. Alexander Capurso, head of the Music department, have devised joint maneuvers for the drill.

Learn Songs

All students are asked to learn the words to "My Old Kentucky Home," and "My Buddy," since they will be sung as a part of the half-time ceremonies.

If the words to "My Old Kentucky Home" are unfamiliar, they may be found in any collection of well-known songs. The words to "My Buddy" follow:

My Buddy

Nights are long since you went away,
 I think about you all through the day.

My Buddy, my Buddy:
 No buddy quite so true.

Miss your voice, the touch of your hand,
 Just long to know that you understand.

My Buddy, My Buddy,
 Your buddy misses you.

During intermission there will be a floor show. Punch and cookies will be served.

Mary Frances Helmick, social chairman of Jewell hall, is in charge of all arrangements.

Women's Residences Give Formal Dance Wednesday Night

The women's residence units of the University will give a formal dance from 9 to 12 p.m. Wednesday night in the Bluegrass room of the Union building. The Troubadours will furnish music for the occasion.

Only women who are residents of Patterson, Boyd, and Jewell halls, or of the other University housing units may attend the dance. Men will be admitted by invitation only, with the exception of service men stationed at Berea college.

The residence units are in charge of the following: entertainment, Jewell hall; financial and orchestra, Boyd hall; invitations, Lydia Brown house; decorations, McDowell and Sigma Nu houses; refreshments, Patterson hall; chaperones, Lydia Brown, and door committee, Patterson hall.

During intermission there will be a floor show. Punch and cookies will be served.

Mary Frances Helmick, social chairman of Jewell hall, is in charge of all arrangements.

There will be open house in the residence halls as usual on Sunday afternoon, and the Outing club is planning a hayride. Club members and guests will leave the Union building at 4 p.m. And that brings the week end's activities to a close.

Coach Picks All-Cat Team

In Kentucky's present team is a handful of players whom the coaches of 1970 will talk about when they wax sentimental about the "days that are gone." But it's not the 1944 squad with its Serini and Chambers and Parrott and Saunders that we asked mentors Ab Kirwan and Bernie Shiveley to talk about last week. We asked them to pick an all-time Kentucky team and to exclude this year's squad from the consideration.

It wasn't difficult; within a few minutes they had written a team. The controversies were few, with only an occasional dissent from Athletic Director Shiveley who has been at Kentucky a few more years and has seen a few more Blue and White grid men than has Kirwan. Here is their selection:

 Center, "Dusty" Williams, 1930.
 Right guard, Ike Willoughby, 1940.
 Right tackle, "Babe" Wright, 1931.
 Right end, Bill McCubbin, 1939.
 Quarterback, Ernal Allen, 1941.
 Right half, "Shipwreck" Kelly, 31.
 Fullback, Ralph Kercheval, 1932.
